

The Truth

By Sunil Bali

Tennis legend Martina Navratilova said, "Labels are for filing, labels are for clothing, labels are not for people."

In my experience, most people overvalue what they are not and undervalue what they are.

We tend to focus too much on job titles and qualifications, and not enough on the impact we make on the lives of others. At my first lecture at Business School, my Professor, Manfred Kets de Vries, said to the class, "If you know what makes people mad, sad and glad and then can consistently make them glad, then you don't need an MBA."

The fact is that even the greatest experts don't know it all. No one has a monopoly on the truth. Life changes for the better when we realize that we don't have to know everything and we don't have to pretend we do. It's when our hearts and minds are open that opportunities enter.

The truth is that we're far more compelling than our job descriptions and our Bios.

When we choose to peel away some of these generalisations, kiss goodbye to the labels we've been given and instead project our passion for what we do and why we do it, we attract all the people, resources and opportunities we need to succeed.

This year someone will choose to let go of their past, rewire their present and rewrite their future. This year someone will choose to turn pain into power, fear into fortune and confusion into clarity. This year someone will choose to trust themselves, take bigger risks and be so good that they can't be ignored.

The question is not so much can you, but will you?

Make every day this year chooseday.

© Copyright, Sunil Bali

About the Author

Sunil is a Performance Coach, Speaker and Author.

Ex Head of Talent for Vodafone Group and Santander, and having run a £50m business, Sunil has been responsible for hiring over 50,000 people and has had the pleasure of working with some great entrepreneurs, professionals and leaders.

Co-ordinates

E-mail: sunil@sunilbali.com

Web: www.sunilbali.com

LinkedIn:

uk.linkedin.com/in/sunilbali

"The fact is that even the greatest experts don't know it all. No one has a monopoly on the truth. Life changes for the better when we realize that we don't have to know everything and we don't have to pretend we do."

Important Notice

© Copyright 2015, Bizezia Limited, All Rights Reserved

This article appeared in Better Business Focus, published by Bizezia Limited ("the publisher"). It is protected by copyright law and reproduction in whole or in part without the publisher's written permission is strictly prohibited. The publisher may be contacted at info@bizezia.com (+44 (0)1444 884220).

The article is published without responsibility by the publisher or any contributing author for any loss howsoever occurring as a consequence of any action which you take, or action which you choose not to take, as a result of this article or any view expressed herein.

Whilst it is believed that the information contained in this publication is correct at the time of publication, it is not a substitute for obtaining specific professional advice and no representation or warranty, expressed or implied, is made as to its accuracy or completeness. Any hyperlinks in the article were correct at the time this article was published but may have changed since then. Likewise, later technology may supersede any which are specified in the article.

The information is relevant primarily within the United Kingdom but may have application in other locations.

These disclaimers and exclusions are governed by and construed in accordance with English Law.

Publication issued on 1 February 2015